4 April 1985 MMB-5005

MEMORANDUM FOR:

Director, FBIS

THROUGH:

Chief, Operations Group

SUBJECT:

Monthly Report -- Swaziland Bureau --

March 1985

I. OPERATIONS

A. Editorial/Monitorial

- 1. On 16 March, the RSA and Mozambique marked the first anniversary of the Nkomati Accord under shaky circumstances. On the 5th, Maputo radio carried a statement by Mozambique President Machel that South Africa was not honoring the accord, and other officials added that elements in the RSA were continuing to assist the Mozambique National Resistance (MNR). RSA Foreign Minister Pik Botha responded with interviews carried by SAPA and Johannesburg radio's "Top Level" program admitting the security situation in Mozambique had worsened and suggesting some steps to help the government, including possibly RSA troops. On the 20th, SAPA reported that the RSA had banned aircraft flying close to the border in order to halt clandestine flights aiding the MNR.
- 2. At least 14 people were killed by police in Uitenhage, Eastern Cape, on the 21st, the anniversary of the infamous Sharpeville killings in 1960. The mounting toll of dead and injured provoked a major crisis for the government and prompted a judicial inquiry into the circumstances. The government contended that the police had acted in self-defense, while various opposition groups countered that police had fired without cause. Further incidents and protests were generated by the incident, and promise to continue. On the 27th, Johannesburg radio and television carried live a hard-line speech by President Botha pledging that those who wish "chaos to reign" in South Africa would not succeed.
- 3. On the 15th it was announced that the RAND DAILY MAIL, the internationally known South African liberal paper, would close at the end of April. Closing at the end of March was the SUNDAY EXPRESS, also a liberal newspaper. The reason for the closures was heavy financial losses, but it was no secret that the government had been supporting the RDM's rival morning paper, THE CITIZEN, a government mouthpiece, in an effort to undercut the liberal paper. Prime Minister Botha welcomed the paper's demise. The RDM was consistently the most productive paper the bureau covered.

- 4. On the 17th, Johannesburg radio reported that 17 prisoners of UNITA in Angola, including two Americans, had been released. Earlier the bureau had processed interviews by KUP, the UNITA press agency, with various prisoners, which aroused the interest of political officers in Pretoria and Johannesburg.
- 5. Assistant Secretary Crocker met with Angolan and RSA representatives during the month. Angola media reported few details of the meeting between their interior minister and Crocker except to note that possible U.S. recognition was involved. South African media reported that a partial withdrawal of Cuban troops from Angola had been discussed.

II. ADMINISTRATION

Buildings and Grounds

- 1. The bureau's remote operations building was completed near the month's end and power was supplied on the 28th. Installation of equipment was underway at the end of the month with the microwave racks in place at each end of the circuit.
- 2. New security alarms were installed in the bureau chief's and editor's residences to replace units damaged by lightning. Construction started on a guard shack for the editor's residence and shacks will also be built at the bureau chief's and deputy chief's residences. The bureau contracted with a new security guard service for the residences in an attempt to improve security following the robbery of an embassy employee at her home and the attempted break-ins at two other embassy residences. The new guard service is operated by a former Rhodesian air force security officer.

III. VISITS

To the Bureau
1. FBIS Deputy Director and DDS&T Associate Director Jim Hirsch visited the bureau 27-28 March, meeting with embassy officials and bureau staff members.
2. FEB/ED, arrived 13 March to assist bureau engineer with final installation of the remote antenna site:
3. London Bureau deputy commo chief concluded his training of the bureau's teletype section and departed Mbabane on 31 March. provided a complete training course for all personnel and gave special emphasis to training the bureau's teletype supervisor in supervisory tasks.
IV. COMMUNITY ACTIVITIES
1. The deputy chief participated in a relay race held by the Waterford-Kamhlaba school on 23 March. He soaked the bureau staff, who for some reason underestimated his tenacity, for large sums of money in sponsorship. The money will be used in the school's community aid programs.
2. The bureau chief attended a reception held during the conference of the southern African PAO's in Mbabane. The PAOs were unanimous in their praise for FBIS coverage of southern Africa and the PAO in Cape Town mentioned that part of each morning's meeting at the consulate was devoted to the FBIS take. The bureau chief used the opportunity of the occasion to plead for help from the Maputo PAO in getting the bureau's subscriptions to its Mozambique newspapers renewed. The Maputo embassy has been completely unreponsive to bureau requests for assistance.
